This institution, the annual provision for which is to be not less than £4,000, is mainly intended to give thorough scientific instruction, at moderate fees, to students in attendance at evening classes. Day-classes for higher technical training were established in the College in 1888. In the bursary system, established in connection with the Heriot-Watt College, are included bursaries for (1) "covering the cost of education and books" of students requiring aid in attending the evening classes; and (2) assisting students to carry on their education in the day technical department, or in the University of Edinburgh.

There were upwards of 3,000 students (male and female) in attendance at the evening classes in session 1891-2.

THE MURRAY KEITH FUND,
Royal Infirmary.
Established by Mrs. Janet Murray Keith and her sister, Mrs. Ann Murray Keith, between 1793 and 1816, for relief (at their own homes) of persons who have been dismissed from the Royal Infirmary of Edinburgh as incurable, or who have lost any of their limbs. The Fund is placed in name of the Corporation of the Royal Infirmary, to be held for the purposes of Mrs. Murray Keith's Trust, and is to be kept for ever separate from the affairs of the Royal Infirmary, the managers of which appoint annually three trustees to administer the Fund, and the Trustees are specially empowered to receive and administer along with the above any additional sums which other parties may see fit to provide. The Fund is at present about £5,700 in amount, the interest of which is distributed among about 55 persons, who are paid their several allowances quarterly in advance.

GLASGOW

AND ITS ENVIRONS,

WITH THE BURGHS OF GOVAN, KINNING PARK, PARTICK, POLLOKSHAWS, AND RUTHERGLEN, AND THE VILLAGES OF CROSSMYLOOF, KENNISHEAD, PARKHEAD, SHETTLESTON, SPRINGBANK, SPRINGBURN, THORNLIEBANK, AND TOLLCROSS.

THE City of Glasgow, like many other important places, has no authentic record concerning the date of its origin, or the etymolgy of its name. There is, however, sufficient reason for believing that the Scottish western metropolis was a place of considerable importance during the time that the Romans retained their acquisitions in Scotland. The name of Glasgow is admitted to be Gaelic, but the interpretations of its meaning are both varied and discordant. Little doubt of its existence as a Scottish town is traceable to the foundation of that religious society out of which the venerable cathedral took its rise. Its present magnitude, beauty, extensive manufactures, and commerce sufficiently indicate the early vitality and energy of its inhabitants. In point of commercial greatness and population, Glasgow may be reckoned the second city in the empire. There has recently been added to it CROSSHILL, CROSSMYLOOF, GOVANHILL, HILLHEAD, MARYHILL and POLLOKSHIELDS, all of which now form part of the city. It is in the county of Lanark, situated on the banks of the Clyde; 397 miles from London, 44 from Edinburgh, 137 from Aberdeen, 34 from Ayr, 29 from Stirling, 213 from Manchester, the same distance from Liverpool, 95 from Carlisle, 196 from Dublin, and 127 from Belfast. This distinguished city, in addition to its other claims on our regard, is entitled to respect for its venerable age. More than 1,300 years it has already numbered, and, unlike the myriads of sons and daughters to whom it has given birth, its beauty and vigour have augmented with its age. St. Kentigern, or Mungo, was the reputed parent, who foundedia bishopric upon the site of the future city in the year 560; the tomb of this saint is still shown in the cathedral. John Achaius who had been invested with the crozier about the year 1124, erected the present cathedral, which was consecrated in 1133. Some years after this, William the Lion elevated the rising town to the rank of a royal burgh, with the privilege of an eight days' fair and a weekly market. In 1268 the mace was borne before a provost and bailies, and a seal was allowed them distinct from that of the bishop and chapter. In 1345 Stockwell Street Bridge was built, at the joint expense of Bishop Rae and Lady Lochow. Prior to this period the principal street was Drygate; some small tenements near the head of this street once formed part of the town mansion of the noble family of Montrose; Rotten row was then also one of the chief streets. In 1450 the city and barony of Glasgow was raised by James II. at the supplication of Bishop Turnbull into a regality; in consequence of this proceeding, the bishops therefore obtained the nomination of the civil authorities. Bishop Turnbull next year induced Pope Nicholas V. to issue a bull for the erection of a university; Rotten rowwas the original site, but eight years afterwards Lord Hamilton bequeathed a tenement and four acres of land on the north side of Blackfriars church, where the college was situated until 1870; since then the Glasgow University has been removed to Gilmorehill. In 1484 the Tron church was built; this edifice was destroyed in 1793, but was soon afterwards re-built. The endowment of the University contributed essentially to the enlargement of the town; yet, several years subsequently, the inhabitants did not exceed 1,500 in number; the majority resided in the neighbourhood of the cathedral and about the precints of the Bishop's palace; but as the population increased the inhabitants gradually extended towards the cross. On the formation of the Society of Fishers, the Saltmarket soon gave convenient access to the Clyde; this humble community built Bridgegate (then called Fishergate), and appears to have been the first commercial company established in the city—fish, chiefly salmon, then being the staple of its trade. In 1527 the streets of Glasgow were stained with the blood of two martyrs to the principles of the Reformation—Jeremiah Russell and John Kennedy, the latter a youth of eighteen years of age; but their deaths rather accelerated than retarded the progress of the opinions they had avowed. Forty-five years after that event the High Church was opened as a Presbyterian place of worship; but in 1662 episcopacy being restored and enforced by the bayonet, the persecutions of the Presbyterians became as fierce as when impelled by the intolerance of popery; and an inscription on a fine monument beyond the Infirmary records the names of three of its victims—James Nisbet, James Lawson, and Alexander Wood, who, in 1684, "were martyred for their adherance to the word of God and Scotland's convenanted reformation." It may be remarked that this monument has been renewed three times. The present one was erected and unveiled with great ceremony about thirty years ago. The sanguinary efforts to establish prelacy continued, with more or less violence, until the happy revolution gave permanence to the presbytery. In 1638 was made the first purchase of land for the formation of a public green; but it was not until 1773 that the entire plot (described elsewhere) became the property of the city. During the rebellion of 1715, the citizens of Glasgow displayed great zeal in the cause of the then reigning family; they despatched six hundred men, at their own expense, to join the royal army, and a ditch round the town, twelve feet broad and six feet deep, was commenced, but the speedy overthrow of the Stuart faction dispensed with the necessity of its completion. In 1763, James Watt, who was educated in Glasgow, withdrew to a private room near the Broomielaw, and during his seclusion, with a single assistant, commenced those experiments that issued in such momentous results. Forty-nine years afterwards, the unpatronised Henry Bell, of Helensburgh, launched his little "Comet" on the Clyde—the first steamboat which plied on any water, and proved its independence of wind and tide. The 12th of March, 1782, was memorable for the extraordinary height of the tide; the Clyde rose upwards of 20 feet above its usual mark and completely insulated the village of Gorbals. In 1787, a strike occured amongst the weavers against a reduction of wages. The men cut the webs from their looms and burned them in the streets. So serious did the riot grow, that the military were called out and the people were fired upon, several persons being killed and wounded. It affords an instructive glimpse relative to the distribution of the population in those days to read that the now deserted Drygate was the scene of the disturbance. Those killed were buried in what was then the suburb of Calton; six thousand people attended the funeral. In the wars which were waged against the revolutionary leaders of France, and their successor Napoleon I., from 1791 to 1815, Glasgow displayed her loyalty in a conspicuous manner. Her citizens mustered as volunteers in great force, with the view of repelling the anticipated invasion. Sir John Moore, who fell at Corunna was a native of the city. In 1819-20 the distress and discontent which pervaded the country were largely felt in the district. A body of half-famished weavers, to whom political objects were ascribed, having assembled in force at Bonnymuir near Kilsyth, were dispersed by the yeomanry. The incident is memorable as having occasioned the last executions that have taken place in Scotland for a political offence. James Wilson, a weaver from Strathaven, was convicted (on insufficient evidence, it is now believed) of having taken a leading part in the movement. He was first hanged and then beheaded. Hardie and Baird were similarly dealt with at Stirling; their monument is in the Sighthill Necropolis, Glasgow. The passing of the Municipal Reform Act gave here, as elsewhere, a great impluse to the general interest in public matters, and the benefits derived from it were vastly enchanced over forty years ago by obtaining parliamentary sanction to an act extending the municipal boundaries. Formerly Glasgow proper stood surrounded by the adjacent burghs of Calton, Gorbals, &c.—much as the city of London does—a mere speck in the centre of what was to all intents and purposes, except in the matters of government and administration, one city. Now the whole are embraced.

BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF GLASGOW AND ITS INSTITUTIONS.

The river Clyde divides the city into two unequal parts, that portion occupying the northern bank being the chief. Communication between these two divisions is effected by means of several bridges; that at the end of Jamaica street, called Glasgow Bridge, is conspicuously elegant, and consists of seven arches, the curvature being so very trifling that the transit by it is attended with no inconvenience. The noble quays extend from this bridge in a westerly direction, affording altogether over 20,000 lineal feet of quay wall; and it is here that the vessels by which this part of the river is crowded discharge and take in their cargoes. Included in the extent of quay wall just mentioned, is Kingston Dock, the area of which is 5½ acres. What was known as the Stobcross Dock, but which now has received the name of the Queen's Dock, the works of which were projected in 1872, and are the most extensive in Scotland, was opened on the 19th September, 1877. The dock covers an area of 33 acres. Its length is 3,000 feet, breadth 700, and average depth, 20. The entire cost of the work was £1,600,000. This section is the most important, including as it does the entrance and swing bridge. The basin is connected by means of a branch from Maryhill with the whole railway system of the kingdom. Commodious sheds range along the greater part of the line; and owing to the admirable regulations established, and the commanding width of the line, notwithstanding the prodigious amount of business transacted, the operations of the port are accomplished without confusion or noise, and with surprising celerity. The Graving Dock at Govan, the largest in Scotland, was opened in December, 1875, and is 560 feet long and 72 feet wide at its entrance; the depth of water on sill being 12 feet 6 inches at high water. On the 9th of April, 1851, the foundation stone of the Victoria Bridge was laid by the Duke of Athole, and a gorgeous municipal and masonic procession gave eclat to this memorable event. An iron bridge has been substituted for the Hutchestown Bridge, which spanned the Clyde at the foot of the Saltmarket. The new structure has, in order to do honour to the memory of the late Prince Consort, been named the Albert Bridge. The foundation stone was laid with great ceremony on the 3rd June, 1870. But two years prior to that period the operation of placing the granite pillars upon which the bridge rested was carried on, so that the most formidable part of the undertaking had been got over when the foundation stone was laid. The bridge was opened without any ceremony on the 21st June, 1871. It is nearly level with the roadway, and spans the river in three arches, and in structural and ornamental design is extremely elegant. The cost of this superb structure and its adjuncts approached nearly £65,000. The suspension bridge, between Glasgow Bridge and the Victoria Bridge, for foot passengers, gracefully diversifies the pontine communications between the north and south sections of the city; it is one of the finest bridges in Europe, with a span of 420 feet; the chains rest on handsome piers, with columns of the Grecian-Ionic character in cast iron. The Union Railway Bridge crosses about 165 yards east of the Victoria Bridge. It was opened in 1870, has a very plain appearance, and consists of five river spans of 75 feet clear each, and two street spans of 65 feet each, each pier consisting of two cast iron cylinders, sunk to a depth of 90 feet below high water level, the top of the piers being 30 feet above high water; the cost was £38,000. The Victoria Bridge, at the foot of Stockwell street, stands on the site of the "auld brig o' Glasgow," built about 1345. The present bridge, which was opened for traffic in 1856, has five arches of from 67 to 80 feet in span, is built of white granite, and is 445 feet long and 60 feet wide. The Caledonian Railway bridge has five spans of 110, 166, 200, 178 and 66 feet respectively, starting from the north side. The piers are sunk to a great depth, and are formed of concrete cased in iron, with granite above the low water level. It is 115 feet west from Glasgow Bridge, and there is a clear waterway at high tide of 32 feet. The height of the girders across the piers on the river is 21 feet and across the streets 11 feet. The cost was about £80,000. The river between the opposite quays has not only been widened, but is progressively being deepened through the instrumentality of dredging machines, so that ships of upwards of 1,000 tons burthen now discharge at the Broomielaw. The mud raised by the machines is conveyed down the Clyde in flats, and spread where the shore is low and swampy, by which process the banks of the river are raised, and a rich soil is deposited. A diving bell is also employed as an assistant in dredging operations.

The main line of street, running east and west, is nearly four miles in length and eighty feet wide, assuming at different points the names of Gallowgate, Trongate, Argyle street, &c. Noble houses and handsome shops, with few exceptions, range on both sides throughout the entire line. The street, which runs from north to south, is about a mile in length and fifty feet broad, bearing successively the names of Castle street, Kirk street, High street, and the far-famed Saltmarket, anciently the abiding place of Bailie Nicol Jarvie, and "mony mair bailies." The point of intersection of these two lines is called The Cross, and was at one time before the population had progressed westward, the nucleus of the city. Here stands the Town Hall, in which the Corporation for many years held their meetings, but is now no longer used for the purposes for which it was originally built. Opposite the old Town Hall is an equestrian statue of William III., presented to the city in 1736 by James M'Crea, Esq., then governor of Madras, and a native of Glasgow. Parallel with Argyle street, towards the north, are three other splendid streets, named Ingram street, St. Vincent street, and George street, crossed by others of uniform elegance; but Buchanan street, passing in a northern direction from Argyle street, opposite St. Enoch square, is the handsomest business street in the city. Parallel with this is Queen street. Sauchiehall street, which runs from Buchanan street westward nearly a mile, ranks amongst the finest streets in the city. The shops are very handsome and attractively stored. The architectural taste displayed in the western section of the city is of the first order, and to it the two fine squares—George and Blythswood—along with the streets and crescents that have sprung up beyond them, add a graceful magnificence. Park gardens, Quadrant, and Circus, the Claremont gardens, and Woodside terrace, all challenge admiration by their spacious and handsome appearance. The houses are all of stone, and the construction and arrangement of the streets impart to this vicinity a resemblance of a portion of Bath. In George square, which is laid out with plots of grass and flower beds, are magnificent equestrian statues of the Queen and the late Prince Consort, which occupy corresponding positions inside the quadrangle. A tall pillar, surmounted by a statue of Sir Walter Scott, rises between them, while figures of Sir John Moore, Lord Clyde, Sir Robert Peel, the late Thomas Graham (Master of the Mint, and a native of Glasgow), and James Watt, also adorn the square. The last affords an exquisitely graceful and happy example of the sculptor's art. Burns' monument, erected by public subscription of not more than one shilling from each person, and which amounted in three months to £2,000, was inaugurated, amid a grand public demonstration, on the anniversary of Burns' birthday. The pedestal consists of grey granite, and has bronze bas-reliefs on its panels, contributed by towns in the west of Scotland, and forming illustrations of Burns' works; the statue is nine feet high, and represents Burns in the garb of a small farmer of his time, grasping a Kilmarnock bonnet, standing against the stump of a tree, and musing over a daisy. Three other monuments have a position in George square—Dr. Livingstone, the poet Campbell, and James Oswald, first member of Parliament for Glasgow after the passing of the Reform Bill of 1832. Dr. Livingstone's statue represents him in simple rough travelling costume, standing by the stump of a palm tree, holding a bible, and seemingly in the act of speaking; and Campbell's depicts him in the costume of the latter part of George's IV.'s reign, holding a scroll and appearing to be about to write. The old town lies to the east of the Trongate, extending to the Clyde on the south, and the Cathedral on the north. The Argyle arcade runs from Argyle street to Buchanan street, and contains attractive shops, covered in by a lofty roof of glass. There is a second arcade in Sauchiehall street, called the Wellington, and one from Renfrew street in connection with it, called the Victoria; the Bazaar (the Covent Garden of Glasgow), is situated in Candleriggs street.

Conspicuous among the throng of elegant buildings which adorn the city are the banking establishments, many of which are architecturally beautiful, and all are proud testimonials to the commercial enterprise of this port, of which they are representatives. Among them we may mention the Bank of Scotland, erected in 1867, in the ornamental Italian style, and having over its St. Vincent place entrance a ponderous entablature resting on noble cattle caryatides, from the chisel of Mr. William Mossman. The Union Bank of Scotland, Limited, in Ingram street, having undergone extensive alterations, now presents a fine appearance, being ornamentally one of the richest in the city. The building is in the Italian style, with a frontage of 106 feet to the above-named street. To a height of six feet from the pavement the outer surface of the masonry is of polished Aberdeen granite, varying from twelve to sixteen inches in thickness. Surmounting the main entrance is a massive open pediment embellished with carved work, in the centre of which is a raised sculptured group, representing the figures, shield, and coat of arms engraved on the notes issued by this bank. The building, of which Mr. Burnet, of Glasgow, was the architect, is estimated to have cost over £30,000. The Clydesdale Bank, Limited, on the north side of St. Vincent place, was erected in 1873, after designs by Mr. John Burnet. It rises to a height of three storeys, has a frontage of 134 feet, and flankage of 109 feet. It is rusticated in the front of the first storey, Ionic in that of the second, and Corinthian in that of the third. On the south side of St. Vincent place are situated the offices of the Scottish Amicable Assurance Company, erected in 1872-3, after designs by Messrs. Campbell Douglas & Sellars. The building is in the highly ornate Italian style, and exhibits symbolic features of Faith, Justice, and Amity, from the chisel of Mr. William Mossman. Most of the warehouses and offices of recent erection are also large and imposing buildings. The Royal Exchange, in Queen street, is also a very handsome structure. The principal entrance is by a grand portico of twelve fluted Corinthian pillars thirty feet high. After passing through a tasteful vestibule, the visitor enters the great reading room, which is 130 feet long and 62 feet wide; the lofty room is supported by a double row of columns 19 feet high, each composed of a single stone. A dome, supported by twelve Corinthian pillars, surmounts the building. The great room is supplied with all the leading newspapers, and strangers are courteously allowed the privileges of the room upon subscribing their names. In front stands the equestrian statue of the Duke of Wellington, unsurpassed for grace of style and truthfulness of expression. It was erected in 1844, at a cost of £10,000. The numerous apartments above and below the Exchange are appropriated to various commercial purposes. The Stock Exchange, in Buchanan street, opened in 1877, is in the early French-Gothic style of architecture, three storeys in height, and has a highly ornamental and striking appearance. The buildings, of which Mr. Burnet was the architect, cost upwards of £50,000. The Sheriff's Chambers, which are in Wilson street, form a splendid group of Grecian architecture; in front is an Ionic portico, chastely proportioned; the facade is stately and imposing. They contain court halls and offices for the sheriff, sheriff substitutes, sheriff clerk and fiscal. The new Municipal Buildings are situated in George square, the foundation stone of which was laid October 6th, 1883, by the Lord Provost. The main front faces George square, the town clerk's department occupying the ground and first floors, extending from the entrance in George square, half way along the Cochrane street elevation. The rooms in the opposite portion of the George square front are set apart for the chamberlain's and finance departments, and in the John street portion of the building accommodation is found for the gas and water departments. Facing Cochrane street, and entering from the south-east corner of the quadrangle, the public works office is situated, and in this portion of the building will also be found the office of the clerk of the peace. On the ground floor the medical officer of health and the superintendent of the cleansing department have offices, a portion of the second floor being set apart for the Dean of Guild Court; a room here also being provided for the Lord Dean. The Merchants' House—one of the wealthiest corporations in Glasgow—erected in 1874-7, is in a massive highly ornamental style, having at its north-east corner a tower 122 feet high, and presenting a frontage of 98 feet to George square and 96 feet to George street. The Chamber of Commerce occupies a portion of the building. The Trades' Hall, in Glassford street, is a very handsome building, the front consisting of a centre and wings supported by a rustic basement, four Doric columns above support the entablature, and a dome, surmounted by a lantern, rises from the roof. The hall, one of the finest rooms in the city, is 70 feet long, 35 broad, and 24 high, exclusive of the dome. On the walls and staircases are hung portraits of persons of the trades' rank who have conferred donations on the House, and also tablets recording the names of the conveners from 1605 to the present time. The City Hall, in Candleriggs street, is a very spacious building, in which public meetings are commonly held. The Public Halls, in Granville street, are a most imposing block of buildings, in the Grecian style, having a frontage to Granville street of 200 feet, and are composed of two wings and a centre—the former being flanked with great piers between which are four Ionic pillars, 32ft. high, the centre part having eight similar pillars. The street floor is of a simple and severe style; the upper storeys contain large figures about 10 feet high, representing Music, Painting, Science, Architecture, Poetry, &c., the names of many ancient composers, painters, &c., occupying prominent positions. The reception room is 75 feet by 40 feet, and is 32 feet high. The large hall is 185 feet long (including the back gallery), 75 feet wide and 58 feet high. The hall can accommodate 2,300 persons at a full dress concert, and 3,800 at a popular meeting. The ball room measures 80 feet by 60 feet, and the supper room 60 by 18½ feet. The large organ is one of the finest in the country. In Hope street stands the Corn Exchange, a spacious and handsome structure, with a portico sustained by Corinthian fluted columns; the interior is fitted up in complete adaptation to the peculiar transactions of this important market, held every Wednesday. There are several corn mills in and around Glasgow upon a scale of great magnitude.

At the back of the Cathedral is a rocky eminence called the Merchants' Park, upon the summit of which, on a fluted Doric column, 58 feet high, is placed a colossal statue of the illustrious Scottish reformer, John Knox; appropriate inscriptions are sculptured on the four sides of the pedestal. This monument, so attractive from its position and magnitude, was raised in the year 1825. Contiguous to this is another, similar in character but of inferior dimensions, erected more recently, to the memory of M'Gavin, the formidable opponent of Popery, and author of "The Protestant." The statue of Knox is 250 feet above the level of the Clyde, and is a conspicuous object at a great distance. The artist was Mr. Forrest, of Lanark, and the likeness was taken from an original painting in the Glasgow University. The surrounding grounds have been tastefully planted and formed into a cemetery, named the Necropolis, and the stranger will be highly gratified by a visit to this interesting spot. The view from the summit of the hill is pleasing and commanding, access to it being obtained by a handsome bridge.

A monument to Lord Nelson, on Glasgow Green, is a simple obelisk, 143 feet in height, surrounded by a protecting railing; the four sides of the pedestal record the birth, achievements, and death of this naval hero; and the fact of this being the memorial sculptured to his memory expresses a high idea of the public spirit of the citizens. The Green, of which it is so conspicuous an ornament, is Glasgow's pride. This delightful promenade covers an extent of 140 acres. The Clyde washes its southern margin; the prospect towards the south-east is beautiful and extensive—wood and villas in the foreground, and the hill of Dychmont with the loftier and more distant one of Tinto, in the distance. Here during the summer months may be witnessed cricket and other games; and then, too, the Green is animated by military evolutions. Besides the Green, three other large and beautifully laid out parks have been acquired through the wise liberality of the Corporation. The Kelvingrove or West End Park comprises 50 acres of ground, on both sides of the Kelvin. Sir Joseph Paxton furnished the design for its ornamentation. It formed a portion of the old estates of Woodside and Kelvingrove. The old Manor is still preserved, but has undergone many alterations, improvements and additions, to fit it for serving as the Museum, which contains many interesting objects in nature, art, and science, and well repays a careful inspection. One speciality is the Fulton Orrery, a wonderful piece of mechanism, representing the movements of the heavenly bodies. Outside the museum is an old engine, said to be one of the first made by James Watt, the inventor of the steam engine. The chaste and beautifully modelled fountain in the park was erected in 1872 to commemorate the introduction of Loch Katrine water into Glasgow, and the services in connection therewith of the late Lord Provost, Robert Stewart, Esq., of Murdostoun. The fountain is 40 feet high, and is surmounted by a fine bronze figure representative of the Lady of the Lake. Close by is a group of bronze statuary, presented to his native city by John S. Kennedy, Esq., of New York. It is modelled from sketches taken in the Jardin des Plantes, Paris. It was in this park that the very successful Glasgow Exhibition was held in 1888; the opening ceremony being performed by their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales, in the presence of a vast and brilliant assembly. The Queen's Park, situated to the south of the city, has a total extent of 117 acres, and was also laid out by Sir Joseph Paxton. From the flag-staff mound a beautiful prospect stretches out all around, except on one side where a clump of trees interpose, which mark the spot where camped the Regent Murray at the memorable battle of Langside, 13th May, 1568. The pleasure ground to the east of the park was the scene of the battle, and close to it is Queen Mary's Cottage, on the main road. A stone in the wall tells the tale. The Alexandra, or North-Eastern, Park lies in the north-eastern vicinity of Dennistoun. It was formed in 1870-3, is 85 acres in extent, and was acquired and laid out at a cost of £40,000. Glasgow can now boast of having a park in each of the four quarters of the city.

No stranger can perambulate Glasgow without noticing its admirable pavement. The material being granite, of almost indestructible hardness, the town may be deemed one of the best paved in Europe. The city is plentifully supplied with good and cheap gas by the Corporation, which has the most extensive works to be found anywhere. The same body also supplies to the city and adjoining burghs water of remarkable excellence. It is derived from Loch Katrine, a Highland lake, thirty-four miles distant. The great work by which this is accomplished was begun in 1856, under the superintendence of Mr. Bateman, C.E., and completed three years afterwards. It was a formidable undertaking, the engineering difficulties being very considerable. The aqueduct from the lake to a service reservoir, constructed eight miles out of town, is twenty-six miles long. For the half of that distance the water is conveyed through tunnels. Four miles consist of iron piping carried across valleys, while for the rest there are open cuttings and bridges. The cost of the aqueduct averaged £18,000 per mile. The total cost of the work rather exceeded £1,500,000, but this immense outlay has been well bestowed. It has placed Glasgow, in relation to her water supply, alike as regards quantity, quality, and price, far ahead of all the large towns in the kingdom. The present supply is about 40,000,000 gallons daily, whilst provision has been made for a supply up to 50,000,000 gallons daily, an amount more than double that which could be obtained thirty years ago, and one that that might be doubled again did necessity arise. Its purity has been attested by frequent chemical analyses to be very remarkable. But no adequate idea would be obtained of the enterprise of the municipality of Glasgow if notice were not taken of the City Improvement Trust. This Trust was created in 1866, having for its object the purchase of buildings (especially old buildings), taking them down, opening up new streets in densely and ill-built localities, and in a great part reconstructing the older portions of the city. A tax was imposed to enable the trustees to carry out their operations. They have acquired property to the extent of nearly £2,000,000. The work of reconstruction having long been going on, is now nearly complete, making Glasgow one of the finest cities in the empire. The public slaughter-houses are in Scott-street, Milton-street, and Moore-street, Gallowgate. The last named is very much the largest in Scotland —perhaps in the kingdom. It is situated adjoining the cattle market, and it may be said that the two are one and the same.

COMMERCE, TRADE, AND MANUFACTURES.

Fishing was the earliest branch of productive industry established in Glasgow. Cured salmon was exported in large quantities to France, and different French productions were taken in exchange. In 1667 a whale fishing company was formed and a soap manufactory was established. The commercial prosperity of this city may be dated from its embarkation in the Virginian tobacco trade.

The commerce of Glasgow was at first carried on in vessels chartered from English ports, although it is on record that this city was in possession of shipping prior to the year 1546, and in the reign of Charles II. the "Leon" privateer was equipped here for a cruise against the Dutch. It was not until the year 1718, however, that a ship built on the Clyde, the property of Glasgow citizens, crossed the Atlantic. At that time a good supply of tobacco was brought to this market, and the merchants were enabled to dispose of the article upon more advantageous terms than those of London and other commercial towns in England, which produced great animosity between those parties. The English tobacco merchants charged those of Glasgow with frauds on the revenue. An enquiry was eventually made before Parliament, when a number of restrictions were imposed on the trade, which caused it to decline in Glasgow till the year 1735. It then began to revive, and at length attained such a degree of prosperity for several years previous to the American revolutionary war the annual imports of tobacco into the Clyde were from 35,000 to 44,000 hogsheads; in the year immediately preceding that disastrous war 57,143 hogsheads were imported. From 1,200 to 1,300 hogsheads only of the annual import were sold for home consumption—indeed this trade, at that period, engrossed nearly the whole available capital and commercial enterprise of Glasgow.

The customs revenue collected in Glasgow gives an idea of its enterprise. In 1868 it amounted to £1,350,246; in 1869, £1,185,753; 1870, £963,534; 1871, £999,572; 1873, £1,056,301; 1874, £972,792; 1875, £960,854; 1876, £1,022,825; 1879, £967,383; 1881, £971,916; 1885, £1,110,889 9s. 10d.; 1888, £1,074,872 13s. 10d.; 1889, £1,160,114 1s.; 1890, £1,341,435 4s. 7d.; 1891, £1,392,952 17s. 10d.; and in 1892, £1,479,869 13s. 9d. The rental of the city of Glasgow as prepared by the assessor under the Lands Valuation Act, was in 1855-6, £1,362,168; 1865-6, £1,808,430; 1876-7, £3,096,847; 1877-8, £3,295,888; 1878-9, £3,395,652; 1879-80, £3,406,008; 1880-1 £3,400,517; 1884, £3,432,114; 1888-9, £3,370,736; and in 1892-3, £4,058,758.

The merchants and manufacturers of Glasgow, compelled to turn their attention to other objects when their favourite intercourse with America was interrupted by the war in 1775, began more generally to speculate upon the establishment of manufactures. The introduction of the muslin trade was the result, and it was prosecuted by men of capital with the greatest spirit and success. Early in the present century, the high price paid for the embroidery of muslins enabled thousands of young women in Ayrshire to earn a comfortable living by what is still termed "Ayrshire needle work." Later, this industry was extended to the North of Ireland, and Belfast competitors became rivals for this employment. Still Glasgow remains the chief seat and mart of the manufacture. It was computed that in 1857 the sales of this production had a value of a million and a half. In that year one of the largest firms in the trade failed for a greater sum than had ever been involved in any trade bankruptcy in Glasgow. The trade thus received a check, from which it has not yet recovered. But its progress has been upwards, in the direction of renewed prosperity.

From the introduction of power-loom weaving in 1773, or more correctly, from the application of steam power to cotton spinning in 1792, the cotton trade and manufactures in Glasgow largely helped to increase its wealth and advance it to greatness. Almost all varieties of textile manufactures are here carried on, more or less.

The iron trade has long been one of the staple trades of Glasgow. The city has in relation to it very great advantages from its close proximity to the iron fields. In its immediate vicinity there were on December 31st, 1892, 67 iron furnaces in blast. The amount of production (as per makers' returns) was on December 31st, 1891, 674,425 tons, and on same date in 1892, 977,213 tons. The Glasgow Exchange is the scene of sale for this vast manufacture, and the Clyde ports are principally those of shipment.

In shipbuilding, Glasgow deservedly holds a high position. Its building yards are both numerous and extensive, and the vessels constructed here, whether of timber, iron, or steel, have attained a widespread celebrity.

The merchants import to a large amount sugars, rum, wines, brandy, timber, coffee, cotton, flour, &c., and numberless other productions of the western world, particularly from Demerara, the Caraccas, Buenos Ayres, the United States, Canada, Nova Scotia, &c. Their commercial transactions likewise extend to the coasts of Asia and Africa, and are of considerable consequence in many of the ports of Europe. Their exportations comprises muslins, shawls, and every description of cotton goods, silks, glass, soap, whisky, and the various manufactures of the neighbouring town of Paisley, as well as the products of the adjacent districts.

Of course the Clyde is the great highway for mercantile traffic. The following statement of the number and tonnage of shipping arrivals (steam vessels and sailing vessels combined) will give an idea of the activity of the maritime operations of the port. In the year 1841 the numbers were: —Under 40 tons, 3,432; 40 to 60, 3,965; 60 to 80, 2,758; 80 to 100, 3,139; 100 to 150, 899; 150 to 200, 292; 200 to 250, 179; 250 to 300, 235; 300 to 350, 81; 350 to 400, 73; 400 to 450, 63; 450 to 500, 18; 550 to 605, 69; 600 to 700, 3. In 1876 the corresponding numbers were:—Under 40 tons, 3,579; 40 to 60, 2,822; 60 to 80, 2,110; 80 to 100, 1,436; 100 to 150, 852; 150 to 200, 392; 200 to 250, 515; 250 to 300, 402; 300 to 350, 430; 350 to 400, 491; 400 to 450, 428; 450 to 500, 416; 500 to 600, 239; 600 to 700, 67; 700 to 1,000, 140; 1,000 and upwards, 267. In 1879 the corresponding numbers were:—Under 40 tons, 4,461; 40 to 60, 3,096; 60 to 80, 2,203; 80 to 100, 1383; 100 to 150, 885; 150 to 200, 389; 200 to 250, 737; 250 to 300, 474; 300 to 350, 335; 350 to 400, 501; 400 to 450, 448; 450 to 500, 423; 500 to 600, 290; 600 to 700, 81; 700 to 1,000, 158; 1,000 and upwards, 358. The number of vessels arriving in the Clyde during the year ending June, 1890, was 16,645, of which 15,401 were steamships, having a tonnage of 3,256,443, and 1,244 sailing vessels, having a tonnage of 240,405; and for the year ending June, 1892, 15,929, of which 1,473 were steamships having a tonnage of 3,376,626, and 1,193 sailing vessels, having a tonnage of 249,272. The tonnage of vessels registered as belonging to Glasgow on the 31st December, 1878, was 700,077 tons; number of vessels owned, 1,130; consisting of:—sailing vessels, 564; tonnage, 375,557; steam vessels, 566; tonnage, 342,441; in 1880, the tonnage was 776,780; the number of vessels owned, 1,207; composed of sailing ships, 570; tonnage, 367,216; steamships, 637; tonnage, 409,564. In 1882, the number of sailing ships was 575; tonnage, 373,776; and of steamships, 683; tonnage, 453,668. In 1884, the number of sailing ships was 604; tonnage, 424,114; and of steamships, 824; tonnage, 594,362. In 1886, sailing ships 593; tonnage, 483,862; steamships, 852; tonnage, 578,533; in 1888, sailing ships, 588; tonnage, 483,184; steamships, 945; tonnage, 695,536; in 1890, sailing ships, 569; tonnage, 492,055; steamships, 1,002; tonnage, 781,966; and in 1892, sailing ships, 580; tonnage, 540,879; steamships, 1,027; tonnage, 822,869.

Grangemouth is the port of the eastern entrance of the Forth and Clyde canal through which sea-going vessels of considerable burthen can pass to Glasgow or to the Firth of Clyde and places beyond. The length of the canal to Glasgow is 29 miles, and its entire length 35 miles. The locks are twenty feet wide and 74 feet long, admitting vessels about 68½ feet in length, and little under 20 feet in breadth. The depth of water is fully nine feet. The toll for passing on the canal is one penny per ton per mile for all articles except gunpowder. For the accommodation of vessels too large to enter the canal, capacious wet docks and other works have been provided, and there is now room for about twenty thousand tons of shipping. The depth of water in the river Carron, between the port and the Firth of Forth, is about 20 feet at spring and 15 feet at neap tides.

The railways converging on Glasgow are the Caledonian, the North British, the Glasgow and South-Western, the Glasgow, Barrhead and Kilmarnock joint line, and the Glasgow and Paisley joint line. The City of Glasgow Union Railway connects the North British and Glasgow and South-Western Railways. The chief passenger stations in Glasgow are the Caledonian Central station, Gordon street, head of Buchanan street, Bridge street, Eglinton street, Bridgeton and London road; the North British, Queen street and College square; Glasgow and South-Western, St. Enoch square and Bridge street; Glasgow, Paisley and Kilmarnock, St. Enoch square; Glasgow and Paisley, Bridge street; and City Union, St. Enoch square, Main street, Gallowgate and Bellgrove. It may likewise be mentioned here that regular and frequent communication by steam boats is maintained with Liverpool, Cork, Limerick, Galway, Dublin, Belfast, Londonderry, the Western and Northern Highlands, and all parts of the British coast.

MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT, &c.

The "Lord Provost" is the designation of the chief magistrate of Glasgow, who is styled honourable; the subordinate functionaries are fourteen bailies, a treasurer, a bailie of the River and the Firth of Clyde and his depute, and a master of works. There are 75 councillors—three for each of the 25 wards into which the city is divided—and the dean of guild and deacon convener, who are members of council by virtue of their offices. The principal officers connected with the corporation are the town clerk, city chamberlain, city architect, and procurator fiscal. There are also two other bodies that exercise municipal privileges—the Merchants' House and the Trades' House. The dean of guild belongs to and is nominated by the former, and the convener to the latter House, by which he is appointed. As illustrative of the onerous and and varied duties that devolve upon the municipal authorities, it may be stated that the Corporation administers, solely or in part, 20 distinct trusts, that the united annual revenue of these is in excess of a million and a quarter, and that the debts affecting these amount to more than seven millions. Besides, they have either complete or partial control of the financial affairs connected with the numerous charitable foundations, schools, &c.

The police are under the direction of the Town Council, and there are nine police districts. There are several courts held within the jurisdiction of the city, the chief of which are the following:—The Dean of Guild Court, held every alternate Thursday, at eleven o'clock, takes cognizance of buildings and streets. The Police Courts, of which there are eight, sits every morning at 9 o'clock. The Sheriff Small Debt Court, for debts not exceeding £12, sits every Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday. The Sheriffs Debts Recovery Court sits every Monday, at 12 o'clock, for debts exceeding £12 and under £50. The Justice of Peace Small Debt Court, for the Lower Ward of Lanarkshire, meets every Tuesday and Friday mornings at eleven, in the County Hall, to decide claims of £5 and under. The County Court sits every Monday and Thursday for criminal offences. The River Bailie Court, which is also one of the Police Courts, sits every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, and has marine jurisdiction between Glasgow Bridge and the Cloch, near the mouth of the Clyde. The Sheriff Ordinary Court sits every Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, and adjudicates on causes of any amount, however large. The Sheriff Appeal Court sits on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday at 11 o'clock.

There are two gaols, one in Duke street, and the other at Barlnieln in the outskirts of the city. The Justiciary and Sheriffs Criminal Courts are held in a commanding range of buildings, with its frontage towards the river, near the Victoria Bridge; there is a noble portico in the centre, composed of a double row of fluted columns. The two justiciary halls are in the centre, arranged with the requisite conveniences for a court of justice.

Glasgow now returns seven members to Parliament, instead of three as formerly; the gentlemen at present sitting are Charles Cameron, Esq. LL.D. (College Division); Sir G. O. Trevelyan, Bart. (Bridgeton Division); Alexander Cross, Esq. (Camlachie Division); Sir James M. Carmichael, Bart. (St. Rollox Division); John G. A. Baird, Esq. (Central Division); A. Cameron Corbett, Esq. (Tradeston Division); and A. D. Provand, Esq. (Blackfriars and Hutchesontown Division). The total parliamentary constituency in 1892-93 was 83,058; municipal constituency, 115,690; school board constituency in 1891, 141,152.

RELIGIOUS EDIFICES.

The Cathedral, or High Church, which ornaments the north-eastern termination of the city, and is one of very few ecclesiastical structures of ancient Scotland that have withstood the withering influences of time, the assaults of religious fury, and the sapping of neglect, arose in the early part of the twelfth century. John Achaius, Bishop of Glasgow, was its founder, and John Murdo its supposed architect, the reigning King being David I., who witnessed its consecration. A stone above the door of the choir tells us, in Latin, that it was dedicated in 1197, St. Mungo, or Kentigern, being evoked as its tutelar patron. The figure f the edifice is cruciform. From the centre of the building rises a square embattled tower, of lofty octangular form from which springs a spire. The length of the choir from east to west is 320 feet, and the breadth is 63. The height of the nave is 85 feet, and of the choir 90. The spire is 325 feet in height, and the circumference of the whole building 1,100 feet. One hundred and forty seven pillars support the pile, and its windows number one hundred and fifty-seven. They vary in size, and some of them are exquisite in design. The building some few years ago underwent a process of restoration and embellishment, which, bringing out all the beauty of the original plan, makes it in some respects one of the most richly decorated temples in Europe. The windows have been filled with stained glass according to a connected and harmonious plan. Those in the nave represent Old Testament subjects, according to the order of biblical chronology; those in the choir represent subjects from the teaching of the Saviour. The work was chiefly executed in Munich. The cost of the east window, the finest of the series, was defrayed by parliamentary grant, that of the others by donors, who presented or joined in presenting separate windows by way of family memorials.

The Barony Church, contiguous to the Cathedral, was built in 1798, from a design by Mr. Adam; the parish connected with this church is the largest in the city. The College, or Blackfriars Church, in High street, is a plain building, erected in 1699, on the site of a more ancient pile, called Blackfriars, which in 1660 was destroyed by a thunderstorm. The Tron, or Laigh Church, near the Cross, was erected in 1794, and is a plain building, surmounted by a cupola. A spire, built in 1637, stands between it and the street, and has a clock and two bells. The name of the "Tron" was applied to this church from a part of its steeple having been used as a weigh house. The clock faces of this church are lighted externally by gas lamps. St. Andrew's Church, which stands in a square of the same name, was completed in 1756, at an expense of £15,000, and resembles that of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, London. The architect was Mungo Nasmyth. St. Enoch's Church was erected in 1780, from designs by Mr. Jaffray. The front, on which is the spire, is decorated with a Doric portico, and has a light and handsome appearance; it stands in St. Enoch square, and is a graceful terminating object from Buchanan street. St. George's Church, on the west side of Buchanan street, fronting George street, is a handsome edifice with three-quarter Doric columns in front, the whole height of the church. The steeple is crowned with a dome and obelisk, and is one hundred and sixty-two feet high. This church was finished at an expense of £9,000. St. John's Church, in Græme street, is one of the largest places of worship in the city, affording sixteen hundred sittings; it was built during the residence here of Dr. Chalmers, whose pulpit oratory attracted large congregations. The Gorbals Church is situated at the east end of Carlton place, fronting the river; it was completed in 1810, from designs by Mr. D. Hamilton. The clock of this church, from its great elevation, is seen at a great distance. St. David's Church, at the end of Candleriggs street, is in the Gothic style, and was built from the designs of Messrs. Rickman & Hutchinson, of Birmingham. Circumstances have rendered if expedient to retain the shape and dimensions of the old church; it is built in the form of a cross, and is ornamented with a tower 120 feet high. The vaulted cemetery beneath is one of the most complete in the kingdom. The cost of the church was £7,000, but the sepulchres in the crypt sold for £4,000. The patronage of the city churches belongs to the magistrates and town council, with the exception of the Inner High Church and the Barony, which pertain to the Crown. The patronage of Gorbals church is with heritors or feuars, who purchased it from the College. The stipends of the city clergy are £425 per annum, but that of the Inner High Church is considerably more. The pew sittings are let annually. Apart from the city churches, the revenues of which are drawn by the Corporation who pay the salaries of the clergy, there are many churches in the city connected with the Establishment which are self-supporting. Many of the religious edifices are fine buildings, such as Park and Sandyford Established churches; the St. John's, St. Matthew's, St. George's, the College, and Kelvinside Free churches; St. Vincent street, Claremont and Lansdowne United Presbyterian churches; and Bath street and Trinity Congregational churches.

CEMETERIES.—Close to the Cathedral is the Necropolis, one of the finest cemeteries in Britain. The approach to it is by a lofty bridge which spans the valley through which the Molindinar runs. This bridge has rather appropriately been called the "Bridge of Sighs." The grounds, which are beautified with shrubberies, trees, flowers, and gravel walks, are also thickly adorned with monumental columns and statues, tastefully executed and beautiful in design. The other cemeteries in Glasgow and its suburbs are:—the Southern Necropolis, in Caledonia road; Eastern Necropolis, in Great Eastern road; Cathcart Cemetery, Cathcart; Craigton Cemetery, in Paisley road; Dalbeth, in London road; Lambhill Cemetery, Maryhill; Sandymount, Shettleston; and Sighthill Cemetery, by St. Rollox station.

INSTITUTIONS FOR EDUCATION, LITERATURE, SCIENCE AND THE ARTS.

THE UNIVERSITY.—The new University buildings are situated at Gilmorehill, west end of Glasgow, close to and overlooking Kelvingrove Park. They were commenced in April, 1867, and on the 8th October of the following year the foundation stone was laid by the Prince of Wales. They are from plans prepared by Sir Gilbert Scott, one of the most celebrated Gothic architects of the day. The style is that of the early period of the fourteenth century, as applied to collegiate structures, and, apart from the professors' houses, occupy a space of nearly four acres on the summit of the hill. They form an oblong rectangular pile of about six hundred feet by three hundred feet. On the south side of the buildings a stately tower rises to the height of three hundred feet, and on the eastern side are the Medical and Natural History Class-rooms, projecting from which is an octagonal building forming the Chemical and Anatomical Laboratories. Connecting the north and south portions of the buildings is the noble Bute Hall, the gift of the present Marquis of Bute. In the northern section of the pile is the Library, founded prior to the Reformation, and containing upwards of 130,000 volumes, a Students' Reading Room, and the famous Hunterian Museum. This museum was bequeathed to the College by the celebrated Dr. Hunter, of London, who was a native of East Kilbride. The collection contains specimens of natural history, anatomical preparations, paintings, books, and medals, the latter being estimated at £30,000, and the whole collection cost Dr. Hunter £100,000. The pictures are all from great masters; amongst many others are Titian, Guido, Domenichino, Rubens, and Rembrandt. The University was founded by Pope Nicholas V. on the application of William Turnbull, Roman Catholic Bishop of Glasgow, in 1450-51. At the Reformation, Archbishop James Beaton fled before the triumphant Presbyterians, carrying with him the charters, records, mace and insignia of the University, which he placed in the Scots' College at Paris. James VI. granted a new charter, and endowed the college with valuable property, since which it has risen to high reputation.

The history of the University is full of interest. Its foundation, as before stated, was in 1450-51. It is, therefore, the second oldest among the universities of Scotland, St. Andrews alone being before it. It was established under the name then given to such institutions—studium generale—and included theology, canon and civil law, the arts, and every other lawful faculty. At first there were no buildings or endowments, but art students soon began to assemble for lectures in a building near the Catheral, in a street called Rotten row. In 1460 the first Lord Hamilton made a gift to the Corporation of a site, comprising a portion of that which the old college buildings occupied. Thither the teaching and residence of the members of the University were transferred in 1465. Its business was carried on with varied success till the time of the Reformation, when the revenues were thrown into utter confusion. The public spirit of the citizens was the means of providing for its restoration; and in 1574 renewed animation was given to its academic teaching by the advent, as Principal, of the famous Andrew Melville. His nephew reports that "there was na place in Europe comparable to Glasgow for guid letters during these years, for a plentiful and chepe mercat of all kinds of languages, artes, and sciences." The chairs of Natural Philosophy, Moral Philosophy, and Logic were founded in 1577, and Greek in 1581. The prosperity thus acquired was confirmed by the concession in 1577 of a charter granted by the Regent Morton, and usually known as the Nova Erectio of James VI., then in minority. This instrument was the foundation of many of the statues by which the University is still governed. During the Protectorate, its welfare was enhanced by the attendance of many non-conforming students from England; but at the Restoration in 1660, it was deprived of a great portion of its resources, and three of its professorships fell into abeyance. Its fortunes rose again with the Revolution. The chair of mathematics, long suppressed for want of funds, was revived in 1691, and during the next thirty years another half dozen chairs were either revived or established, namely, Humanity, revived, 1706, although founded in 1637; Oriental Languages, 1709; Civil Law and Medicine, 1712; Church History, 1716; and Anatomy, 1718. A professorship of Astronomy was established in 1760; while during the present century several new chairs have been founded—Natural History, 1807; Surgery and Midwifery, 1815; Chemistry, 1817; Botany, 1818; Materia Medica, 1831; Institutes of Medicine and Forensic Medicine, 1839; Civil Engineering 1840; conveyancing, English Language and Literature and Biblical Criticism, 1861; Clinical Medicine and Clinical Surgery, 1874; and Naval Architecture, 1883. Previous to the Universities Act of 1858, the business of the University was transacted in three distinct courts, namely:—the Senate, comprising the Rector, Dean, and all The Professors; the Faculty, containing the Principal and the Professors whose chairs had been instituted in, or previous to, the last century; and the Comitia, comprehending the Rector, the Dean, the Principal, the Professors and the Matriculated Students of the University. But by the Act above mentioned, important changes were made in the constitution and government of the University, by which the distinction between the Faculty and the Senate was abolished, and two new bodies, the University Court and the University Council, were instituted. The Council consists of the enrolled graduates of the University, and has only deliberate functions. The Court, consisting of seven members, viz.—the Rector, the Principal, the Dean of Faculties, and four Assessors, nominated severally by the Chancellor, the Rector, and General Council of the University, and the Senatus Academicus, is empowered to review all decisions of the Senatus Academicus, to effect improvements in the internal arrangements, and to exercise others powers in the government of the University. The Senatus, consisting of the Principal and twenty-eight Professors, is entrusted with the ordinary superintendence and regulation of the teaching and discipline of the University, and the administration of its properties and revenues.

Connected with the new University, and in a sense within its borders, is the Western Infirmary, opened in October, 1874. The cost was about £100,000.

Queen Margaret College, Hamilton drive, Hillhead, is the department for women of the University of Glasgow. Its classes prepare for the degrees in Arts, Medicine, and Science of that University, and it is governed by the University Court and Senate, and its professors and lecturers are appointed by the Court. The curricula, regulations, and fees are those of the University, and its students have access to the University library and museum. The medical students have facilities for clinical work in the Royal Infirmary (where 110 beds are reserved for clinical instruction for women students only), the Royal Hospital for sick children, and Glasgow Maternity Hospital; and for dispensary work in the Royal Infirmary, Royal Sick Childrens' Hospital and Central Dispensary.—The Glasgow and West of Scotland Technical College is in Bath street, its main objects being to afford a suitable education to those who wish to qualify themselves for following any industrial profession or trade, and to train teachers for technical schools. It was founded by an Order of the Queen in Council, dated 26th November, 1886, according to a scheme framed by the Commissioners appointed under the provisions of the Educational Endowments (Scotland) Act, 1882, whereby Anderson's College, the Young Chair of Technical Chemistry in connection with Anderson's College, the College of Science and Arts, Allan Glen's Institution, and the Atkinson Institution, were placed under the management of one governing body.—The High School of Glasgow, in Elmbank street, is one of the oldest institutions of the city. The exact date of its origin is unknown, but there seems considerable likelihood in the supposition that it was founded about the same time as the Cathedral, and it is certain that it was in existence before the University, for in records prior to the foundation of the latter, the Doctor of the Grammar School is honourably mentioned. There are two normal schools, or training academies, one in connection with the Established and the other with the Free Church. An immense number of children are here taught, and there are about a hundred pupil teachers in each. The Glasgow Institute of the Fine Arts, which occupies a site on the south side of Sauchiehall street, was opened on February 3rd, 1880. The buildings, which are in the Greek and French Renaissance style of architecture, were designed by Mr. Burnet, and cost about £15,000. The city has no free library like that of Liverpool or Manchester, but the nucleus of such an institution is to be found in Stirling's Library, founded in 1791 by the late Walter Stirling, Esq., merchant in Glasgow, and enhanced by subsequent benefactions. The Glasgow Public Library is now amalgamated with Stirling's, and there was also added, some years ago, the valuable collection belonging to the late Dr. Scouler, who bequeathed it to the library at his death. The library contains many fine specimens of early printing and several manuscripts, also a complete set of the publications of the Patent Office. Baillie's Institution Free Library, 48 Miller street, owes its existence to George Baillie, a member of the Faculty of Procurators in Glasgow, and at one time Sheriff of Dunblane. In 1863 Mr. Baillie conveyed his fortune (£18,000) under a trust deed to the Faculty of Procurators to found an institution for the improvement of the condition of the working classes. The money was to be allowed to accumulate for 21 years before being applied, and was to aid the self-culture of the operative classes, by furnishing them with warm, well lighted, and everyway comfortable accommodation at all seasons, for reading useful and interesting books, and to afford to children of the same classes the means of instruction and industrial training in schools, either gratuitously, or for such consideration as the trustees thought advisable. In the event of the funds being insufficient for establishing and supporting both branches of the scheme, Mr. Baillie directed his trustees to abstain from the execution of that branch which relates to schools, or to restrict it within such limits as should leave sufficient funds for the libraries and reading rooms. At the close of the period of accumulation, the funds amounted to £36,000, which was insufficient to establish both libraries and schools, and the trustees resolved not to proceed with the erection of the latter. In October, 1887, the library was opened in the same building as the Stirling's and Glasgow Public Library. The hall is a cheerful and well furnished room, and a capital selection of books has been provided. It is open daily, Sunday excepted, from 10 a.m. till 10 p.m., and is free to all. The Mitchell Library, 21 Miller street, is the largest Free Public Reference Library in Scotland, and now (April 1893) contains 95,000 volumes in all departments of literature. It has been endeavoured to give to the Library, as far as the available means have permitted, a thoroughly representative character, so that students in the various branches of knowledge may have access to standard and useful works in their own subjects. The attention of artizans is specially directed to the useful and valuable works on the principal manufactures, and on the applications of science and art. It is believed that apprentices and young tradesmen would derive much advantage from the knowledge and study of the works relating to their respective occupations. In particular the library contains many works on artistic design and decoration as applied to manufactures. Special collections of books relating to Scotland, and particularly to Glasgow and the West, are being formed. The "Poets' Corner" is believed to contain the largest and most valuable library of Burns' and Scottish poets and dramatists in existence. The "Moir Collection" now contains more than 11,000 volumes, bequeathed by the late Bailie Moir, and purchased with money left by him for that purpose. By a bequest of the late Councillor Logan, the library acquired a complete set of the Philosophical Transactions of the Royal Society, and many other works of importance. In the magazine room may be seen the current numbers of more than 320 selected periodicals of all classes. These are bound in volumes and preserved for reference. The library is opened free, from 9 30 a.m. till 10 p.m. daily. The Glasgow Athenæum, St. George's place, was instituted in 1847. The object of this institution is to place within the reach of the public the fullest and most recent imformation on all subjects of general interest; whether commercial, literary, or scientific; to provide an agreeable place of resort in the intervals of business; to incite, especially among young men, a taste for intellectual and elevating pursuits, and to secure the means of its gratification, by affording facilities for systematic study in various branches of useful knowledge. The reading rooms are abundantly supplied with the earliest telegraphic intelligence, newspapers and periodicals of every kind, and the library contains upwards of 12,000 volumes. The Faculty of Physicians' and Surgeons' Hall is situated in St. Vincent street, within which the two incorporated bodies above named hold their meetings. The charter of their incorporation confers the right of granting diplomas, after examination, to students in medicine and surgery; and every person practising without such diploma in Glasgow, Renfrew, Dumbarton, Lanark, Kyle, Carrick, Ayr, and Cunningham, is liable to a fine of £3 8s. 6d. for each offence. The members of the faculty enjoy the privilege of exemption from imposts and irksome duties. The freedom fine of admission into the faculty is £150, and licentiates within the city or suburbs pay £20, but those in the country £5 5s.; for the diploma of each student £5 5s. is required. Every candidate for a diploma must produce evidence that he has studied three winter sessions, either at a university or under resident members of the college of physicians and surgeons of Edinburgh, London, or Dublin, or under the members of the faculty of physicians and surgeons in Glasgow, and that during that period he has attended public lectures on anatomy, surgery, chemistry, materia medica, the theory and practise of medicine, and midwifery; and that he has attended one year at some hospital, and studied pharmacy in an apothecary's or surgeon's shop for six months, without which he cannot be taken on trial. Candidates who have served an apprenticeship of three or more years must produce similar evidence. The faculty contribute to a fund, founded in 1792, for the support of their widows and children. The Faculty of Procurators' Hall, West George street, near to St. George's Church, is a large building in the Venetian style, designed as a library and hall for the procurators. It forms one of the finest architectural embellishments of the city. The educational institutions of Glasgow are very numerous, and are supported with creditable spirit; they are enumerated under the head of Schools, and in the list of Public Buildings. But the Ragged School, which occupies a noble building in Rotten row, merits special notice from its peculiar character and beneficial results; the pupils are mostly the offspring of dishonest and profligate parents, and the children are fed as well as instructed. The Glasgow Institute of Architects was established for the advancement of the art and science of architecture, the consideration and discussion of all subjects and questions connected directly or indirectly with the profession of architects and the concentrated expression of opinion upon the same. There are about 50 members. In Virginia street, with a frontage thereto of 60 feet, the Glasgow Apothecaries' Hall has been erected by the Glasgow Apothecaries' Company. The style of architecture is the modern Italian, the frontage up to the first storey being faced with polished granite. The premises are suitably fitted up for carrying on a large business. The building erected for the New Club is situated in West George street, to which it has a frontage of 84 feet, and in which is the principal entrance. The premises are provided with every convenience which can conduce to the comfort of the members.

CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS.

The Royal Infirmary, situate near the Cathedral, exhibits an exterior of considerable beauty, while the arrangements of the interior are skilfully adapted to their benevolent object. The building has been much enlarged since its first erection, the latest addition being for the reception of accident patients. Beneath the dome is a spacious apartment which is appropriated to surgical operations. The Royal Lunatic Asylum, at Gartnavel, two miles west of the city, is a noble edifice, admirably constructed for the recovery and comfort of its unhappy inmates. No appliance is wanting that can minister to the attainment of these objects; a portion of the establishment is appropriated to pauper inmates. The Town's Hospital for paupers, in the Parliamentary road, is a building strikingly original in its design. The centre is octagonal, with four wings diverging from it. The wings contain rows of commodious chambers, and a long gallery for exercise. This structure was erected as an asylum for lunatics, but these have been removed to the Royal Lunatic Asylum at Gartnavel. The Poor House, for the extensive Barony parish, at Barnhill, is a very capacious asylum for the children of poverty, and well adapted by its cleanliness, ventilation and position to mitigate the ills of their condition. The Govan Parochial Board have also erected at Merryflats the finest asylum for the poor in Scotland. The Deaf and Dumb Asylum, Prospect bank, Queen's park, possesses every adaptation for its interesting object. The Asylum for the Blind, in Castle street, is capable of accommodating more than one hundred inmates, who are advantageously employed in the fabrication of various useful articles; and the invention of printing in relief, by enabling the blind to read manipular or tangible letters, has given a most interesting facility for their education. The Magdalen Asylum, at Lockburn, Maryhill, has accommodation for 130 inmates. There is also a Probationary Home in Stirling road, where accommodation is provided for 62 inmates. The Mossbank Industrial Schools is an institution situated at Hogganfield, about two miles to the east of Glasgow, whose object is to lay hold of and educate neglected and destitute children. The foundation stone was laid on the 26th August, 1868, with great ceremony, by the late Right Hon. the Earl of Dalhousie, K.T., Grand Master Mason of Scotland, assisted by the Right Hon. the Earl of Haddington and other officials of the Grand Lodge of Scotland. Externally the building is of red brick enlivened by bands and ornamental work in white and black brick. The structure has a homely and comfortable aspect, and reminds one of the beautiful old English almshouses or hospitals. The Lock Hospital, in Rotten Row, was formed in 1805, for the cure of unfortunate females. Hutcheson's Hospital, in Ingram street, was formed by the two brothers, George and Thomas Hutcheson, between the years 1639 and 1641. The former amassed a large fortune as a writer and notary, although his charges were so moderate that it is stated he would never charge more than sixteen pennies Scots for the writing of a bond, however large the amount; the latter brother was a preacher. From the original endowment and subsequent benefactions, the trustees are enabled to appropriate about £3,000 per annum to pensions for aged men and women, and for the education and partial clothing of poor boys, together with £3 per annum to the latter. The present building, erected in 1803, is ornamented with an octagonal spire 156 feet high. The constitution of the hospital is much more liberal in consequence of an Act obtained in 1872. The Eye Infirmary, 170 Berkeley street, and 76 Charlotte street, is liberally supported, and has been successful in its operations. The Glasgow Hospital and Dispensary for Diseases of the Ear, 28 Elmbank crescent, has been fitted up with all the necessary appliances to carry out the work in which the institution is engaged; the three great objects of which are—to afford to the poor who suffer from ear disease the best possible treatment; to provide every facility to the medical student and practitioner for the study of ear disease; and to develop and advance the science and art of aural surgery. The Glasgow Ear Institution and Dispensary, 241 Buchanan street, opened by the late Dr. Cassells in 1871, consists of commodious and well-appointed rooms, furnished with all the necessary apparatus and instruments requisite for the treatment of its large clientele of patients, and for advancing the knowledge of this department of disease. The House of Refuge and the Night Asylum in North Frederick street, are large and well managed institutions.

In addition to the benevolent institutions already mentioned, there exist many others, in the form of mortifications and bequests, which spread a lustre on the memories of departed citizens of Glasgow.

Natives of every county in Scotland have found a home in Glasgow, and there is scarcely one that does not give its name to a society composed of such persons united together for the two-fold objects of cherishing home memories and aiding persons from the same districts who may fallen into distress.

RELIGIOUS AND MORAL SOCIETIES.

Missionary effort in Glasgow commands, as it deserves, an extensive and encouraging sympathy, and in connection with the Religious Tract and Book Society, which we gladly give a brief notice of, will, it is trusted, continue to prosper. The object of the Religious Tract and Book Society is to promote the diffusion of a healthy religious literature, especially among the humbler classes of the people, by the gratuitous distribution of tracts, and the offering, by the system of colporteurage, of periodicals of a sound religious character for sale at the houses of those who might not be attracted to them at the ordinary book shops. Other societies for religious objects are also very numerous, and are liberally supported. There are several Bible Societies and Sabbath School Societies, besides the Young Men's Christian Association, a numerous body, organised after the society in London, bearing the same name, and in connection with which a course of lectures is delivered every winter by eminent men. The Abstainers' Union is a body which also deserves mention. In winter they have concerts every Saturday evening in the City Hall, which is invariably thronged.

PLACES OF AMUSEMENT.

The Theatre Royal is in Cowcaddens. Externally there are no architectural features noteworthy, but the interior is sumptuously fitted up. The Grand Theatre is also located in Cowcaddens, and is very commodious and comfortable. The New Royalty Theatre, opened December, 1879, in Sauchiehall street, is internally one of the handsomest in the kingdom; there is also a theatre called the Royal Princess's at South Side. The Royal Botanic Gardens, Great Western road, are highly deserving of inspection. The hothouses are extensive and well supplied with specimens of the floral and other vegetable productions of every tropical clime; they also contain a large Winter Garden. There are three music halls, viz. the Scotia, in Stockwell street; the Gaiety, in Sauchiehall street; and the Star, in Watson street, Gallowgate.

NEIGHBOURING BURGHS.

CROSSHILL, CROSSMYLOOF, GOVANHILL, HILLHEAD and MARYHILL are now merged into Glasgow and form an integral portion of it, the populations being returned therewith.

GOVAN burgh is beautifully situated on the south bank of the Clyde, about 3 miles W. of Glasgow. It gives its name to one of the Parliamentary divisions of Lanarkshire, and is at present represented by John Wilson, Esq. Though outside the municipal boundaries of the city, the burgh is now almost one with it, there being a continuous line of houses connecting the two. It has little to interest the visitor beyond its extensive shipbuilding yards, which for the construction of iron vessels have earned a world-wide reputation. The parish church is picturesquely situated near the river, and is surmounted by a handsome spire, in imitation of that at Stratford-on-Avon. There are also places of worship for other denominations, an academy, and a number of public schools. Elder Park, presented to the inhabitants of Govan by Mrs. Elder, was opened with much ceremony in August, 1885, by Lord Rosebery. A very handsome statue of the late John Elder, Esq. was erected at a cost of £2,000, by public subscription, and placed in the park in 1888. The burgh contains an area of 1,100 acres, and by the census returns of 1881 had a population of 51,783, and by those for 1891, 61,364. The assessable rental of the burgh for 1892 was £236,555.

The burgh of PARTICK, opposite GOVAN on the other side of the river, is situated to the west of the city. It is environed by agreeable scenery and possesses a beautiful park. There are mills, factories, boatbuilding yards, and other industrial establishments in the burgh. It contains several Established, Free and United Presbyterian churches, and schools. The population has increased with extraordinary rapidity. In 1861, it was 14,861; in 1871, 23,904; in 1881, 27,396, and in 1891, 36,538.

KINNING PARK, situated to the south-west of Glasgow, was created a burgh 16th January, 1871. It has an Established, a Methodist, and a Congregational church. In 1881 it contained a population of 13,001, and in 1891, 13,679.

RUTHERGLEN, or Ruglen, as it is commonly called, is an ancient royal burgh in the parish of its name, situate on the line of the Clydesdale Junction railway, 2½ miles S.E. from Glasgow, and 9 W. from Hamilton. The town consists of one principal street with many smaller ones branching from it; in its vicinity collieries are wrought, and chemical and dye-works are in operation. There are a few large factories, a paper mill, a pottery, tube works, and shipbuilding yard, which give employment to a large number of the inhabitants. The places of worship are an Established church, a quoad sacra church, a United Presbyterian church, two Free churches, a Roman Catholic chapel, an Evangelical Union chapel, and one for the Wesleyan Methodists; there are also several excellent schools, and an extensive circulating library. The Town Hall, erected in Main street, at a cost of nearly £14,778, is a handsome and spacious structure, with a large square tower, having a clock with three dials. This fine building can be seen at a great distance, and adds very much to the appearance of the town. Rutherglen was erected into a royal burgh in the year 1126, by King David I.; by his charter the inhabitants enjoyed many privileges. After that period small craft came up the Clyde to Rutherglen quay. Glasgow, however, by the superior consequence arising from its trade and manufactures, absorbed many of the privileges and engrossed the traffic of this burgh, and the Broomielaw has for years been the station of almost all external commerce. The castle of Rutherglen (which stood near to Castle street, but of which not a trace now remains) underwent several sieges during the wars of King Robert, and it remained a place of strength until the battle of Langside, soon after which the Regent Murray, to revenge himself on the Hamilton family, in whose custody it then was, ordered it to be destroyed. It was in the old church of Rutherglen that, in the year 1291, Sir John Monteith engaged to betray to the English his friend and companion, Sir William Wallace. The burgh is governed by a provost, two bailies, a treasurer, a Dean of Guild, and thirteen councillors. It unites with Kilmarnock, Dumbarton, Port Glasgow and Renfrew in sending a representative to the Legislature. The gentleman at present sitting is Stephen Williamson, Esq. Kilmarnock is the returning burgh. The title of Earl of Ruglen, formerly in the Hamilton family, is understood to be dormant. The fairs of this town have been noted for a great show of horses, particularly of the Lanarkshire or Clydesdale breed, esteemed the best for draught in Scotland; they are held on the first Friday after the 4th of May; first Tuesday after the 4th of June; first Friday after 25th of July; first Friday after the 25th of August; Wednesday and Friday in the first week of November, and the Friday after the 25th of November. The parish of Rutherglen, which comprises and area of 2,151 acres, in 1881 contained a population of 13,801, and in 1891, 16,169, the royal burgh at the latter date having 13,391.

SPRINGBURN, 2½ miles N.; PARKHEAD, 2 miles E.; TOLLCROSS, 3 miles E.; and SHETTLESTON, 3½ miles S.E. are villages situated the above distances from Glasgow, and contain manufactories and works of various kinds, giving employment to a large number of inhabitants.

POLLOKSHAWS is a thriving manufacturing town and burgh of barony, in the parish of EASTWOOD, 2½ miles S.W. from Glasgow; situated on the road to Irvine, near to the White Cart river, in a pleasing valley sheltered by plantations. It consists of several well-built streets, somewhat irregular in appearance. The trade of the place is considerable, there being extensive establishments for weaving and dyeing, also bleach fields, print works, paper works, iron foundries, and the manufacture of earthenware, altogether furnishing employment to the greater portion of the inhabitants. The burgh has a Town House (a neat building, with a spire), an extensive public library, a Board school, and one for Roman Catholics. Pollokshaws was erected into a burgh of barony in 1814, in favour of Sir John Maxwell, of Pollok, and the government of the town vested in a provost, a bailie, six councillors, and a treasurer. Branches of the Clydesdale Bank, Limited, the Commercial Bank of Scotland, Limited, and the British Linen Company Bank are established here. A justice of peace court is held once a month, and criminal courts weekly. The places of worship are two Established churches, two Free churches, a United Presbyterian church, and chapels for Original Seceders, Primitive Methodists, and Roman Catholics. The parish of Eastwood is four miles in length by three in breadth, bounded on the north and east by Govan and Cathcart, on the south by Neilston and Mearns, and on the west by the Abbey parish of Paisley. The district is generally well cultivated, and abounds in freestone; and, besides the stream of the White Cart, is watered by the Auldhouse burn. The Glasgow, Barrhead and Kilmarnock railway has a station close to the town, and omnibuses run to and from Glasgow several times a day. The parish of Eastwood comprises 5,596 acres, and the population numbered in 1881, 13,915, and in 1891, 16,042, of which Pollokshaws contained 10,228.

THORNLIEBANK is a village lying a little to the south of Pollokshaws, in a beautiful hollow, watered by the Auldhouse burn. The manufacture of cotton is carried on here to a great extent, embracing every process from the raw material to the most beautiful printed fabrics.
